Eisenhower in Denver on Work, Play Vacation

Grandson to Join President in Trout Fishing

DENVER (UP)—President Eisenhower, relaxed and informally dressed, plunged into his vacation today and immediately got set for some Rocky Mountain trout fishing with his grandson, David.

The President spent a short period at his temporary Lowry Air Force Base headquarters this morning and then turned to a golf practice session at the Cherry Hills Country Club.

The President will leave Tuesday afternoon for Fraser, Colo., 70 miles west of here in the Rockies, for several days of trout fishing on St. Louis Creek at the ranch of his old friend, Aksel Nielsen, Denver banker.

The White House announced that Mr. Eisenhower's 7-year-old grandson, David, will join the President at Fraser Wednesday and return to Denver Sunday with the President.

Mr. Eisenhower landed at Lowry at 8:59 p. m. EDT Sunday after a five-hour, 34-minute flight from Washington in the Constellation, the Columbine III. He was in no hurry and detoured for a low-level look en route at his old hometown of Abilene, Kan.

The President, his desk and calendar relatively clear, is expected to head for the upper reaches of the Rockies Tuesday or Wednesday for several days of trout fishing at the Fraser, Colo., ranch of his pal, Aksel Nielsen of Denver.

Small Plane Arrives
Speculation buzzed among newsmen and others that the Chief Executive might give his now twin-engine light plane, an Aero-Commander, a workout on some of his fishing excursions.

The small four-seater arrived unannounced from Washington about two hours before the Columbine, stopping for refueling at Scott Air Force Base, Ill.

The White House would not say what plans, if any, Mr. Eisenhower had for the trim little craft, which he used to fly between Washington and his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

The President wound up a visit of several days to Gettysburg Sunday, leaving Mrs. Eisenhower there, and returned to Washington for a few Sunday hours at his desk before taking off. He disposed of the last three of 890 bills sent him by Congress, signing two and vetoing one.

He will fly east to Philadelphia via Washington Aug. 23-24 for a major speech to the American Bar Association, but return immediately. Mrs. Eisenhower is expected to join him at Philadelphia for the return visit.

Report 7 Indians Killed, 36 Wounded On March Into Colony

PANGIM, Goa (UP)—Reports reaching here said 7 Indians were killed and 36 were wounded today when reinforced Portuguese frontier guards fired upon hundreds of Indian "volunteers" who attempted to march into this enclave to demand its surrender to India.

United Press staff correspondent John Hlavacek, who saw one of the most bloody incidents, said 3 Indians were killed and 13 were wounded when 50 Indians attempted to march across the frontier at Banda.

The unarmed Indians retreated, he said, after gathering up their wounded. Hlavacek and another correspondent, Arthur Bonner of CBS, helped the Indians remove two of their dead.

Portuguese sources described as a failure the Indian demonstration, aimed at forcing the Portuguese to get out of Goa—a colony about the size of Rhode Island.

Other reports said two Indians were killed at Aronda. One was killed and 19 were wounded at Erekhool and 1 killed at 4 wounded at Vapi, near Daman.

Deny Intervention
Messages from Dili said 200 Indian marchers were poised on the frontier to march into Goa from that point but there was no information on how many actually attempted to enter or whether there was gunfire.

Indications received here were that of the several thousand who had converged on the frontier for the march, only 300 to 400 actually attempted to cross, in face of the determined resistance of the Portuguese guards.

In New Delhi both the British High Commission and the American Embassy denied they were considering intervening in the Indian-Portuguese dispute. Their denials were issued in response to persistent rumors that the two countries had been asked to intervene.

Goa is a semi-circular shaped territory some 150 miles north of Bombay with its flat western side on the Arabian Sea and the rest surrounded by India.

The crux of the dispute is that India feels since Britain and France have both pulled out of the subcontinent it is a matter of national prestige that Portugal pull out too.

Portugal refused to do so, pointing out Goa has been a Portuguese possession for 400 years and is as much a part of Portugal as Lisbon itself and that the 650,000 Goans favor the status quo.

The children had won an A-rating and a blue ribbon as a musical trio at the fair Saturday. They were rated the best group in a 4-H Share-the-Fun contest in Henderson County competition.

Their father, Roy Painter, was seriously injured and taken to Graham Hospital in Canton, Ill., Donald Vaughan, Greenville, Ill., a passenger in Watkins' car, was in critical condition.

Mason County Coroner Richard Hurley said witnesses reported the car driven by Watkins was weaving on the highway just before the accident.

The Painters' two other children were not in the auto. They had been left with friends at Monmouth, Ill., police said.

H. C. Dempsey Buys Interest in Harper Agency

Henry C. Dempsey today revealed he had bought an interest in J. F. Harper and Son, Inc., Chrysler and Plymouth dealers in Harrisburg, and that he now is working at his new job at the sales agency on Mill street.

The Harper agency also sells the GMC trucks.

Mr. Dempsey, who will be the general manager at Harper's, had been associated with the Pool Pontiac agency for the past seven years, serving as sales manager.

Robert Pool, owner of this agency, today announced that Mr. Dempsey's post at his place had been taken by C. C. Porter, who had been working at the Humm Motor Co. Mr. Porter for years was a hoisting engineer employed by the Peabody Coal Co.

Mr. Dempsey is well-known in the area. During the last city administration he was commissioner of public health and safety. He also is a former deputy sheriff.

For years the Chrysler and Plymouth agency has been operated by Fred Harper and his son, Howard. Howard Harper operates the Harper and Son car exchange at Brookport.

Find Mutilated Body of Missing Boy Scout, 12

Authorities Question Employees Of Michigan Camp

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UP)—Authorities planned to question employees of a Boy Scout camp today in their search for the sex pervert who shot and killed a 12-year-old scout.

The mutilated body of Peter Gorham, missing from Camp Wabamigo since July 5, was found Sunday in a swampy area 10 miles north of here and six miles from the camp.

Sheriff Axel E. Pederson said 10 employees of the camp would be questioned about the slaying. The sheriff said at least two of them could be considered "suspects" and would be given lie detector tests.

Michigan state police said they had been informed by Illinois authorities that at least one of the camp employees was a "question mark."

The state police said they checked the record of all the Michigan employees of the camp while police from Evanston, Ill., the boy's home town, checked all Illinois employees.

State Police Capt. Lester Hunt said this section of Michigan was the "most fertile" in the state for sex deviates because of numerous youth camps in the area.

Young Gorham's body was clothed in blue jeans and a T-shirt when it was found. He had been shot through the back of the head with a bullet from either a .22 or a .25-caliber gun, police said.

Third Slaying In Michigan
His underclothing and a sleeping bag were scattered around the body.

Police said no apparent attempt had been made to conceal the body although it was partially covered by the debris scattered around the area, which local residents sometimes use as a dump.

The boy disappeared six weeks ago while on a hike with other scouts from the camp.

Peter was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Gorham of Evanston. His father is employed by the Oil Producers Assn., an agency which sells insurance to the oil industry.

He was the third young person killed by a sex deviate in Michigan this year.

Barbara Gaca, 7, Detroit, was killed March 24 and Jeanie Singleton, 8, was found dead after she disappeared near her Kalamazoo home May 23.

Ice Cream Peddler Rescues Girl, 6, From Kidnapers

COMPTON, Calif. (UP)—An alert ice cream peddler Sunday rescued a six-year-old girl from a kidnaper whose description he heard on his radio.

Police said Everado Martinez, 39, of Artesia, Calif., lured Joyce Pike into his car with the promise he would give her money. The girl's companion, Terry Hose, 8, also entered the car but managed to jump out before it sped off.

The boy's description of the abductor was broadcast immediately and ice cream salesman Ed Braden Jr. heard it and spotted the girl in a car. Braden walked to the parked car and found a man sprawled asleep in the back seat, he said.

"Is anything the matter?" he asked the girl.

"This man won't take me home," she sobbed.

Braden said he seized the ignition keys from the dashboard, calmed the girl and called police who arrested Martinez under California's "Little Lindbergh Law."

Martinez, father of eight children, said he had not molested the girl.

"I lost my mind. I've never done anything like this before," he told officers. "I'm sick and I'm an alcoholic."

The wardens said the convicts had a half hour conference among themselves after he talked to them by telephone. They "agreed" to surrender, that is was foolish to hold the hostages," he said.

The surrender came at 4:15 a. m. EDT.

Gov't Reports Americans Pile Up Record Debts During Booming Second Quarter

WASHINGTON (UP)—Americans piled up record debts during the booming second quarter of 1955. At the same time U. S. production and income climbed to new and unexpected peaks.

The Commerce Department reported these twin facts Sunday. They also underscored comments by President Eisenhower and Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks over possible soft spots in the current unprecedented prosperity.

The department indicated Americans may be leaning too heavily on credit to buy things they want. It also pointed out that business may be stacking up outsized inventories.

The report brought out that statistics for the second quarter outdistanced expectations in major economic categories. They topped first quarter figures by sizeable margins.

Praises Employment Program

On another economic front, Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell praised the "remarkable growth" of the federal-state employment insurance program.

On the 20th anniversary of the program's beginning, he said Sunday that the number of workers protected and the size of jobless paychecks have more than doubled since 1935.

But Mitchell called for coverage of 12 million persons left outside the bill. He also said the average jobless paycheck, despite the weekly rise in benefits from $10.66 in 1939 to about $25 now, was not good enough. He said it amounted to only about one-third of the average worker's regular pay, compared to 41 per cent in 1939.

The nation turned out about 7 per cent more goods and services in the second quarter of this year than in the same period of 1954. At the same time, wage earners received about 5 per cent more in personal income.

Income Above Expectations

Income climbed to an annual rate of $300,500,000,000, some 200 million dollars above expectations. This was an increase of $6,900,000,000 over the rate for the first three months of 1955. It compared with a rate of $286,600,000,000 in second quarter 1954.

Continued movement at about 15 miles an hour was forecast for the next 18 hours. By then the coast was expected to be getting high winds and pounding tides of the type that caused major flood damage in North Carolina last week.

Highest winds were concentrated in a 115-mile-an-hour vortex near Diane's calm central eye but hurricane force winds swept out for 125 miles to the north and east and 70 miles to the southwest. Gales kicked up the Atlantic sea lanes for 350 miles to the north and east of Diane's center and 170 miles to the southwest.

Hurricane flags probably will be ordered up this afternoon on the coasts of the Carolinas and Georgia should the hurricane continue its expected course, the Weather Bureau said.

Weather officials said the killer hurricane, which has already claimed one life, could outdo Connie in its destructive power. Connie's 135-mile-per-hour winds lost some strength when the hurricane hovered aimlessly off the coast for several days but the storm still accounted for 42 deaths as it finally smashed inland and caused an estimated 15 million dollars damage.

Action Follows Irish Republican Army Arms Raids

Police Believe Warning Phone Call Is a Hoax

LONDON (UP)—Scotland Yard clamped a security guard on the House of Commons itself today following two Irish Republican Army raids within 48 hours on British army barracks and arsenals.

An anonymous telephone call sent special agents prowling thru the halls and tunnels of the ancient Westminster buildings where Guy Fawkes planted his gunpowder long ago.

Parliament is not now in session.

Police said the warning telephone call probably was a hoax. But the daring of the two IRA raids put them in no mood to take chances. Special security guards were posted around the massive Parliament buildings following today's latest, pre-dawn raid on a British army camp in Wales.

Five members of the IRA swooped down on the Kinmel Park Garrison at Rhyl in north Wales in a pre-dawn attack aimed at building up the army's arsenal in its avowed campaign to drive the British out of Northern Ireland.

They tied up one British soldier but he was able to free himself and sound the alarm. First reports said the raiders fled Edinburgh. That order followed an outcry by police and members of the 31st and 38th Royal Artillery training regiments stationed at the camp on the Irish Sea.

The camp is five miles south, west of Rhyl near the main Saint Asaph to Abergel Road.

The raid came as an unidentified truck, possibly carrying arms captured in the IRA's most daring raid in history Saturday, ran a police roadblock near Edinburgh. The truck ignored police signals to stop and the alarm was flashed to all checkpoints.

British armed forces went on a wartime alert unparalleled since 1945 and War Minister Anthony Head prepared a report to Prime Minister Anthony Eden at a special cabinet meeting called for 1:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. EDT).

Commander Leonard Burt, chief of the Scotland Yard special branch, interrupted his vacation to take over the manhunt. The British Army ordered all sentries be armed against further IRA raids.

That order followed an outcry in the British press when it was discovered that the Saturday victims of the IRA commandos were armed only with pick handles.

The IRA's insolent raid netted 67 Bren and Sten guns and rifles and 80,000 rounds of ammunition when a band of commandos descended on the British barracks at Arborfield near London and tied up 20 sentries.

Three suspected raiders and a fifth of the stolen ammunition were captured a few hours later, but the rest got away.

Extra Guards For Queen

A British War Office spokesman said today that extra guards would be posted to all important points and have a bullet up the spout.

The Navy and Air Force also tightened their security guards and it was reported without confirmation that extra guards were surrounding the residence of Queen Elizabeth at Balmoral Castle in Scotland and Eden's cottage at Broad Chalke.

The Home Office said the reports were "unlikely." Scotland Yard commented only, "We never discuss security arrangements." A spokesman at the War Office said the reports "could be true."

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Weatherman Says The World
Isn't Getting Any Hotter: You
May Think It's Hotter But It Isn't: Senator Symington Much
Tougher With Patriotic Grain-Bin Witness Than With Talbott.

WASHINGTON. — The next time
dad boasts about the good old days when the summers were mild and pleasant, you can tell him to stow
it in his beard. It just ain't so, says Norman R. Hagen of the U.
S. Weather Bureau, a theory-busting meteorologist with 27 years' experience. And to prove it he points to the summer of 1939, when Washington endured 11 days of temperatures over 100 degrees.

Hagen is the meteorologist who handles the weather bureau's deli-vry of letters offering solutions to the weather problem. Trouble is the solutions and theories don't stack up.

Many weathermen do believe that the North Atlantic area is getting warmer these days, but they hesitate to point out that the change is too slight for any mere mortal to notice it—something on the order of two degrees in the last 100 years.

Even on this point, however, all the experts don't agree. Some admit the weather's been warmer in recent years, yet believe it's just an upward cycle and may cool off again. Others deny that there's been any basic change at all, instead insist that average temperatures have risen in many cities because more man-made heat is being produced by factories, furnaces, the exhaust from autos, and retained in urban areas.

"Don't sit around and wait for palm trees to sprout in Montreal," Hagen advises.

For the slight rise in recorded average temperatures, there are almost as many possible explanations as there are weathermen.
Polar ice caps melting? Yes, says Hagen, though they may start growing again. But even if all the ice on earth disappeared, it would only hike average temperatures a few degrees. Down south it might actually benefit the country by bringing more rain.

Is the sun's radiation getting stronger? Yes, says Hagen, but though there seem to be more and more H-bomb-like explosions on the sun, any rise in solar radiation is still too meager to show up accurately on the instruments now used by man.

Why, then, does dad insist that the summers were cooler and the winter snows deeper when he was a lad? Hagen offers two answers.
First, to a kid 10 years old a six-inch snowfall looked like Siberia.
So when dad grew up and 30 years later started to reminisce, that six-inch snowfall reappeared in his memory as at least six feet.

Second, the weather changes widely from day to day, week to week, and year to year. If it's average, dad doesn't notice. But let one really scorching summer heat wave hit town and dad talks about it incessantly, though the average temperature for the entire summer may later turn out to be subnormal.

Nevertheless, the average person mopping his brow on an August dog-day is hard to convince.
This is also true during the hurricane season, now under way, and Hagen gets a lot of letters telling him how to stop the destructive whirlwinds that spawn east of Cuba, then sweep up the Atlantic

FAULTY GRAIN BINS
Sen. Stuart Symington, Missouri
Democrat, who went out of his way to seem nice to Secretary of the Air Force Talbott when Talbott was under fire for helping his firm get business from government contractors, took a contrary tack the other day. He got tough for a change.

But he got tough with a man who was trying to expose inefficiency in one of the worst recent farm scandals, the slap-dash manner in which grain bins and corn cribs have been constructed to hold government surplus grain.

When C. E. Huff of Kansas City testified regarding faulty grain
bins manufactured by the Kansas City firm of Black, Sivalls, and Bryson, Symington acted as if he were the attorney for Black, Siva-lls, and Bryson.

That company had manufactured
the corrugated iron sections and knuck-down parts for about 7,000 government grain bins, of which many have been declared faulty by government inspectors.

But when C. E. Huff took the witness stand to testify regarding these flaws, the senator who had been so mild toward Talbott suddenly became a prosecuting attorney. He immediately jumped on Huff, repeated the same question,
twice elicited the same answer,
twice appearing not to hear.

"You have heard of a disgruntled former employee, haven't you?" Symington asked in conclusion.

The senator from Missouri may have proved that Huff lacked loyalty to his former employer, but he did not clear Black, Sivalls, and Bryson of producing grain bins contrary to government specifications, or show why the Agriculture department didn't act sooner;
nor did he show who was at fault
in losing the taxpayer several millions from rat-infested, weevily grain.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE
American cameramen at Geneva
were so amazed at the treatment
they got from Russian secret police that they're still talking about it. In fact, the latest edition of "White House news photos" tells how the cameramen were staggered by the cooperation of the Soviet secret police, who even held up one TV cameraman so he could take a picture of his bosses over the heads of the crowd. . . . People talk about the job of Democratic Senate leader being a jinx. They point out that Senators Scott Lucas
of Illinois and Ernest McFarland
of Arizona were defeated, that Lyndon Johnson of Texas suffered a heart attack, while his successor,
Earle Clements saw rival "Happy"
Chandler win the Democratic gov-ernatorial nomination in Kentucky.
But they forget that Alben Barkley jumped from Senate leader to be vice president of the United States, and that Clements is a long way from being defeated. In fact, Clements might do a Barkley.
The Lehman bill calling for the New York State development of remaining power at Niagara Falls is stalemate in the Senate. Public Works committee, with Democrats for it and Republicans mainly against it. . . . Strom Thurmond, South Carolina Dixiecrat, may hold the decisive vote. A rival bill,
by Senator Capehart of Indiana,
would let five private-power companies develop the Niagara kilowatts.
Two Republican senators, Wiley of Wisconsin and Potter of Michigan, have copied the bill of a New Deal Democrat, Senator Dick Neuberger of Oregon, to reduce the social security retirement age of women from 65 to 60. He introduced it way back in January.

British Oppose Publishing Big Four Records

LONDON (U)—A spokesman for the British Foreign Office disclosed today that the United States wants to publish the records of the Big Four summit conference at Geneva in the near future.

Britain objects to the plan.
The Foreign Office spokesman said: "Consultations are in progress and no final decision has been taken so far."

"Britain," he said, "would prefer not to publish."
The spokesman said the United States government has informed the British government it wishes to publish the records "in accordance with their (the United States) practice."

The four powers participating in the Geneva conference which sought a formula for ending the cold war, have each drawn up their individual records of conference proceedings. There is no single, agreed record, British officials said.

British officials would like to postpone publication of the Geneva conference records for an indefinite period.

In the British view, the proceedings of such conferences should not be made public during the lifetime of its principals.

The same question arose earlier this year when the United States announced the decision to publish the records of the long-secret Yalta conference. Britain opposed publication of those papers on grounds
such "premature publication"
might adversely effect future confidential discussions in other conferences. Britain also objected that the procedure might be embarrassing to individuals who spoke, believing they were speaking in confidence.

Ike Advises More Pay for Teachers in Message to AFL

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—President Eisenhower said today one way to relieve the "serious shortage of teachers" is to pay them salaries commensurate with the services they perform for the individual family, the community, and the nation.

He made his statement in a message to the AFL American Federation of Teachers, which opened its 38th annual convention here.

But the Eisenhower administration drew criticism from AFL President George Meany and Federation President Carl J. Meigs for its "disappointing record" in failing to support federal aid to education.

Speaking to an estimated 1,000
delegates attending the five-day convention, they promised a united labor fight for federal aid when the AFL and CIO merge this winter.

Meany, in a message, called for a "vigorous campaign for the construction of new schools and the lifting of teachers' standards to a level of decency."

Megal, in his presidential address, charged that the administration has "dodged the issue" of aid
"by artfully following the delaying tactics of study, stall and stand pat."

Harvester Workers Vote to Strike

CHICAGO (AP)—Officials of the CIO United Auto Workers announced today that members have voted 95 per cent in favor of a strike against International Harvester Co.

A walkout would affect 40,000
production, maintenance and office employees in farm implement plants in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and California.

The contract expires Aug. 23,
and negotiations on a new one resumed today after a weekend recess.

ed in decoration, was supposed to

Far East Chief Returns to Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—U. S. Far East Commander Gen. Lyman L.
Lemnitz returned back to riot-torn Korea today after President Syngman Rhee reaffirmed his determination to force U. S.-guarded Communist truce inspectors out of Korea.

Lemnitz, the top American military officer in the Far East, flew in from his Japan headquarters.
It was his third trip to the uneasy peninsula since Korean mobs 10 days ago started demanding that Polish and Czech truce inspectors leave the country. The general's mission today was not disclosed.

Republic of Korea President
Syngman Rhee earlier today reaffirmed the determination of his nation to throw out the Communist truce team members, whom Rhee calls "spies."

Lemnitz met with Rhee in Seoul last week and was believed to have urged the aged leader to appeal to his people to avoid bloodshed in demonstrations against U.
S.-guarded truce team compounds.

Heart Specialist Found Guilty of Murdering Wife

MCLESTER, Okla. (AP)—Dr.
Ben T. Galbraith, 34-year-old heart specialist convicted of murdering his wife, today awaited a judge's formal sentence that will send him to a life term in prison.

The slightly-built young physician will be taken from his jail
cell before Judge W. A. Lackey Tuesday to hear the sentence as recommended by an all-male jury.

The jury, which could have handed down the death penalty, deliberated only an hour and 10 minutes Saturday night before finding Galbraith guilty of killing his wife, Katherine, 34.

The verdict climaxed a week long trial, presaged by Dr. Galbraith's slashing his wrist a day before it started. It was his fourth attempt at suicide since last March 17, when his wife was clubbed to death and his three children died from injections of poison.

Galbraith admitted killing his family and trying to burn their house down to cover up the crime.
He said he killed them because of a fear he was going crazy and his family would be left to starve.

Galbraith's attorneys indicated
they would not appeal, and it appeared likely that the state would not prosecute him on the three counts of killing his children.

Denies Contributing To Deaths of Two Fellow Prisoners

NEW YORK (AP)—Sgt. James
C. Gallagher denied on the witness stand today that he contributed to the deaths of three fellow American soldiers in a Korean prisoner of war camp in 1951.

Testifying in his own defense the 23-year-old Brooklyn soldier admitted to a court-martial that he slapped two of the soldiers and hung one on a peg, but he said he did it for their own good.

Two of the men he is charged with murdering by throwing them
from their prison camp shelter into the sub-zero cold have been identified as John William Jones, Detroit, and Donald Thomas Baxter, Waukon, Iowa. The third soldier, who Gallagher allegedly hung from a peg on the wall and then threw outside to freeze to death, never has been identified, but in his testimony Gallagher said the man's name was "Dunn."

Herrin Youth, Victim Of Traffic Accident, Dies of Injuries

HERRIN, Ill. (AP)—Eugene Ban-dera, 16, Herrin, who was injured in a traffic accident more than a month ago, died Sunday night.

Bandera suffered head injuries in an accident July 1 and had been unconscious since the accident.

Bandera was a passenger in a light truck driven by Thomas Sawyer, 16, Herrin. Herrin police were chasing the truck, which authorities said had been racing through Herrin streets with a car driven by a Carbondale youth.

The chase went down a dead end
street and the truck ran onto railroad tracks and overturned.

When it comes to Protection ... it pays to have the BEST

What wouldn't he give for a better belt? But it's too late to try and buy one now.

Dependable insurance is like that, too. It's one thing you can't buy when you need it most. After an accident or loss has occurred, it's too late to get better insurance if the policy you have proves unsatisfactory.

So don't gamble with "cheap" insurance. Buy only the BEST—and buy it today.

49'ers Score 9 Touchdowns in 60-14 Victory

Drub Pittsburgh Steelers; Packers And Eagles Win

By United Press

Coach Red Strader knew today that it's true what they say about his San Francisco Forty Niners backfield.

Strader, marking his return to professional football as a head coach, saw the explosive Fortyniners backfield, with an assist from the defense, roll up nine touchdowns in the club's second exhibition game of the season Saturday night. The Forty Niners beat the Washington Redskins, 7-6, last week.

The San Francisco starting backfield of Y. A. Tittle, John Henry Johnson, Hugh McElhenny and Joe Perry accounted for five TD's on the way towards a 60-14 shellacking of the Pittsburgh Steelers. Perry scored twice and wound up with 12 yards gained on 13 tries.

McElhenny, generally considered one of the most dangerous breakaway runners in the National Football League, scampered 39 yards on a beautiful run in the opening minutes of the game after San Francisco had marched 49 yards to its first score.

Rookie defenseman George Maderos scored twice, once by falling on a kick in the end zone and another on a 33-yard run back of an intercepted pass, while Rex Perry and Bill Jessup got the other Fortyniners' scores. Gordie Soltau added five conversions, while Lynn Chadwick and Jim Finks accounted for the Pittsburgh scoring.

Eagles, Packers Win

Clutch passing enabled the Green Bay Packers and the Philadelphia Eagles to gain victories in other NFL exhibition action during the weekend.

Tobin Rote hurled three touchdown passes in all, but the most important one came with 45 seconds remaining in the game as the Packers upended the New York Giants, 31-24, at Spokane, Wash.

The Giants had gone in front with a minute and 35 seconds left in the game, when veteran quarterback Charlie Connerly, who sat out most of the game, flipped a nine yarder to end Ken McAfee in the end zone.

Rote began passing right after the ensuing kickoff and finally got the winner when he found Gary Kneafelt from 11 yards out with the clock ticking off the final minute.

Veteran quarterback Adrian Burk tossed two touchdowns in the second period to lead the Eagles to a 21-6 decision over the Baltimore Colts. Burk connected for 10 of 16 passes in all.

Ted Wegerl hauled in a 51-yard loss in the second period and minutes later, Pete Pihos culminated a 61-yard march by grabbing a short flank pass for the Eagles' second score.

All-Stars Scatter

Jerry Norton, a converted defensive halfback, reeled off a 40 yard run to set up Philadelphia's final tally early in the fourth period. Wegerl bucked it over from the two. Bobby Walston kicked all conversions.

Baltimore came up with its only touchdown late in the game when quarterback Gary Kerkorian sneaked over from the one to complete a 53-yard march.

Elsewhere, most of the All-Stars, who whipped the champion Cleveland Browns in the annual classic at Chicago Friday night, were either with or on the way to their pro clubs. L. C. Dupre, the standout ball carrier in the game, reported to the Colts Sunday and said he was not disappointed over not being selected the most valuable player in the game.

"Sure, I would have liked the honor," Dupre said. "But Ralph Guglielmi (Washington Redskins) deserved it for the fine way he quarterbacked our team." Guglielmi, of Notre Dame, played the whole game and was instrumental in the collegians' 31-24 upset of the Browns.

Konstanty Sent To Minors as Yanks Add Coleman, Grim

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP) — One-time "most valuable player" Jim Konstanty took that sad train ride down to the minor leagues today as the New York Yankees girded for a pennant drive by adding Bob Grim and Gary (Rip) Coleman to their pitching staff.

Grim, 25-year-old right-hander who won 20 games last year and was named the American League "Rookie of the Year," has won only four games this year and has been on the disabled list for six weeks with a sore elbow.

Coleman, a speedy southpaw with a "hot and cold" reputation, was called up from Denver to the American Association, where he won 12 games.

Adding these two to the roster meant the departure of Konstanty, the 38-year-old relief right-hander who was the National League's "most valuable player" in 1950 when he hurled the Phillies to the pennant, and also of infielder Bobby Richardson, who had been with the Yankees only two weeks. Both were optioned to Richmond of the International League.

The increase in demand for electric power is expected to be 10 per cent per year for the next several years, but efficiency in consumption will keep down total coal tonnage. The plants coming into service in the near future will use even less coal to produce one kilowatt hour of electricity than today's most efficient plant, which does the job with around 0.75 of a lb. of coal.

Stars Defeat McLeansboro, 5-3

The Harrisburg Stars traveled to McLeansboro Sunday afternoon and came back with a 5 to 3 victory for their seventh win of the season. Bledig, Stars' catcher, was the big gun at bat, driving in four of the five runs with a bases-loaded triple and a double with a mate on base. Roy Sisk, making his first start on the mound this season, gave up only six hits and struck out nine. All three of the McLeansboro runs were unearned.

Harrisburg had eight hits with Bledig getting a triple and double, Floyd Shewmake two hits including an automatic double, Sisk a single and triple and Smith and Ziegler a hit each.

Legion Trips Uniontown, 3-2, In 14 Innings

"Big Jim" Bumpus brought his Uniontown, Ky., Cardinals to Harrisburg Sunday afternoon and he and his teammates put up quite a battle before bowing to the Harrisburg Legion in 14 innings by a 3 to 2 score.

Bumpus put on a terrific exhibition of hurling as he held the hard hitting Legion club to only one safety for the first ten innings. Don Wallace, hurling for the Legion, was a worthy opponent for the visiting moundsman inning for inning in keeping the enemy from crossing play dirt. Neither team scored until the 11th inning when the Cardinals scored on a long triple by R. Harris which he stretched into the first run of the game when a nicely relayed throw by Griffiths was knocked out of the hands of Romonosky who made a diving tag at the incoming Harris at the plate.

However, the Legion fought back to knot the count as Romonosky walked and Wallace forced him at second. An infield out and a single by Williams pushed Romonosky across the plate with the tying run.

The Cardinals scored one more run in the 12th when an error, a fielder's choice and Bumpus' long double netted the visitors a temporary lead. With two down in the 12th, and things looking bad for the locals, the Cardinal defense, which had been outstanding all through the game, suffered a momentary lapse and a hit combined with two throwing errors allowed the Legion the tying run.

Neither side tallied in the 13th and the visitors failed to score in their top half of the 14th, but Manager Jim Hay's double and Wallace's slashing single brought the contest to a close in the bottom of the 14th with Hay carrying the winning marker across the plate.

Bumpus struck out 14 of the locals and wound up allowing only seven hits over the 14 frames. Don Wallace struck out 11 of the Cardinals and also gave up only seven hits. Both pitchers received stellar support from their teammates in the field, except for the above mentioned errors by the visiting team.

Fred Williams and Jim Hay paced the Legion hitters with two each, with Merle Dailey, Harold Guiley and Wallace getting the other safe hits. Harris was the visitors' trouble maker at bat with a long double and triple for the afternoon.

Dick Romonosky caught all the way for the Legion with G. Harris backstopping the route for the losers.

Next Sunday the Legion nine hopes to bring local fans a real treat if all goes as planned. They intend to bring here the Nashville, Tenn., Old Hickory Barons, one of the southeast's top baseball semi-pro clubs. Due to prior commitments at the local park command the game probably will be played at Carrier Mills. Further details will be published later.

Yankees Drub Orioles Twice To Move Into Second Place, Half Game Behind Indians

By United Press

Manager Casey Stengel was dining on his own words today but couldn't be happier because his New York Yankees are feasting on rival pitchers again.

Only a week after Stengel lashed them "the worst hitting New York team I've had," the Yankees unleashed a total of 30 blows good for 49 total bases in crushing the Baltimore Orioles, 7-2 and 20-6.

As a result of the heavy cannonading the Yankees:

1. Moved past the Chicago White Sox into second place in the American League race only a half game behind the Cleveland Indians.
2. Stretched their winning streak to four games—the longest they've put together since July 2.
3. Attained their largest single game run output of the campaign and scored in double figures for the first time since June 2.
4. Can take over first place by beating the Orioles twice again today.

The Yankees sliced a game-and-a-half off the Indians' margin when Cleveland bowed to the Kansas City Athletics, 7-3, Sunday. They moved past the White Sox, who defeated the Detroit Tigers, 5-4, and held their three-game lead over the fourth-place Red Sox who walloped the Washington Senators, 9-6 and 2-1.

Yankees Rout Lopat

Hank Bauer homered in each game and Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra also hit homers in the Yankees' tremendous assault. They routed ex-Yankee Ed Lopat in a four-run fifth inning in the opener and blasted seven pitchers for 20 hits in the nightcap. Whitey Ford received credit for his 13th win in the opener and comeback kid Tommy Byrne hit his 11th victory in the second game.

The Athletics pounded Mike Garcia for six runs in three innings and went on to snap Cleveland's six-game winning streak with the aid of Art Ditmar's fine relief performance. Ditmar took over for ailing Bobby Shantz in the fifth inning and yielded only two hits in 4.23 innings to gain credit for his eighth win. Garcia, a 19-game winner last season, now is 8-11.

Fleet Jim Rivera scored from third base on Walt Droppo's infield out in the eighth inning to give the White Sox their third win in four games. Billy Pierce won his ninth game of the season and first over his former Detroit teammates in two years.

George Susce Jr. pitched a seven-inning, six-hit game for the Red Sox after Norm Zauchin's 23rd and 24th homers paced Boston to its first-game triumph. Billy Klaus' double, Ted Williams' single, an error and Jackie Jensen's sacrifice fly gave the Red Sox their two runs in the first inning of the nightcap. Zauchin drove in five runs in the opener.

Ronnie's, Walker's Cleaners to Finish Protested Game

A four-inning, 7-6, game between Ronnie's Studio, Walker's Cleaners Friday, which was awarded to Ronnie's Studio, has been protested and will be finished Tuesday at 5 p. m. at Taylor field.

The game will pick up where it left off and each team must field the same players who were in the game Friday.

with the Philadelphia Phillies' star coming out on top of the Brooklyn Dodgers' ace, 3-2, in 10 innings. The Dodgers rebounded to win the second game, 5-4, on Carl Furillo's 13th-inning single and still lead by 1½ games. Their magic number is "24" with 40 games to play.

Roberts' victory was his third in a row and made him the first major league pitcher of the season to win 19 games. Newcombe suffered his second straight loss and now has an 18-3 record.

Sid Gordon's 200th homer of his career gave the New York Giants a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in their opener and the 37-year-old veteran also homered in New York's 3-1 nightcap win. Johnny Antonelli won his 10th game and Jim Hearn his 13th for the Giants.

Ted Kuszewski's 40th and 41st homers of the year were not enough as the St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5-4, in 10 innings and the Milwaukee Braves won a 4-3, 10-inning decision over the Chicago Cubs in the other National League games.

Who Rides With Wyatt

by Will Henry

THE STORY: Johnny, a kid just turned 21, shot a gambler who was dealing off the bottom of the deck in the Hairy Dog Saloon in San Angelo. What kept housemen from blasting Johnny was a tall stranger named Wyatt Earp.

When Wyatt came out of the Hairy Dog it wasn't anything like you read about his kind doing in these johnny-come-lately cowboy books. There wasn't any of that cautiously moving out backward through the slot doors with two big .45's trained on the local villains inside. He just walked out, frontward.

But the way he looked the kid over when he found him waiting outside by his crowbar cow horse, was something else again. The kid remembered that he'd never seen such a scary pair of fish-blue eyes in his life. They cut into him like two chips of ax-blade iron flying off a 10-pound grindstone. Still the big man didn't say a word.

Johnny was some little subdued by this time. The jolt was wearing off of him and he was beginning to suspect he'd just killed a man and that Tom Green County wasn't going to be near big enough to hide him out.

He moved quick, stepping over to Wyatt's stirrup, put in hand and having trouble getting his words out.

Wyatt let him sweat a minute, then chucked his head at him like he had inside.

"Crawl that roan, boy," he advised, nodding toward Johnny's scrub. "You'd best ride along with me a spell."

Johnny knew what he meant. He jammed his hat back on and crawled.

By the time they were past the last building and into the sagebrush, his neck was stiff from sweat. He eling back toward the Hairy Dog and he couldn't keep his concern tied down any longer.

"There hasn't anybody even stepped out the doors yet!"

Wyatt glanced back. "Figures," he shrugged.

"How come?" demanded Johnny.

"I told them it made me nervous to have anybody looking over my shoulder."

His wide mouth didn't lift a muscle when he said it, but Johnny could see the smile back inside those pale eyes.

After a long minute of "cutting through the flats west of town, he got his thoughts working back onto where he was.

"What are we going to do now?" he asked anxiously.

Johnny flushed. "I mean, what you aim I should do?" he corrected. Then the words tumbled out suddenly. "He was dead, wasn't he? I never looked at him after he slid under the table."

"He was dead, boy," interrupted Wyatt harshly. Then, voice softening a little, "A man can tell without he has to look twice. It's the way their eyes go dumb and straight, and the way they sag when the slugs hit into them."

Johnny felt sick and cold inside then, the warmth and the glow of the minute before gone out of him like a doubt lamp. If he had had any doubts about where he was, Wyatt Earp had just spelled it out for him.

"If you look at the law like it's a fence line, boy, running say due north and south, you can see it splits the grass into two pastures. On this side, in the east pasture, is the registered stock, legally branded, grazing peaceful and putting on fallow. Over yonder, on the far side of the wire, the grass gets mean and thin. What few head are cropping it look pretty tick-sore and fly-blown. They're all ribs and horns and loose hide. And all spooked and hoof-split from grabbing their feed in the rocks and on the run."

Johnny looked at it, and he saw it.

"I reckon," he said at last and only half-aloud, "that crimping that crooked faro dealer puts me somewhat west of that line fence."

"Somewhat," was all that Wyatt said.

Johnny thought that over, but it only brought him back around to where he'd been before.

"What's a man to do?"

"You calling yourself a man now?" asked the big rider quietly. Johnny looked at him and thought

Marine Hero Is Found Dead

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The coroners office withheld a formal ruling today in the puzzling death of Marine Maj. Gen. Merritt A. Edson, famous World War II hero who was found dead Sunday of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Deputy Coroner Richard M. Rosenberg said he could not issue a formal ruling on the cause of death until completing the investigation which might take two or three days.

Edson, leader of the famed "Edson's Raiders" in World War II, was found dead in his car inside his closed garage. The auto's ignition key was turned on, but the engine was not running, Rosenberg said.

Members of Edson's family told Rosenberg Edson had shown no signs of despondency and that he was in good health. No notes were found, Rosenberg said.

Rosenberg said he has "no reason to believe" homicide was involved. He declined to say whether he thinks the 58-year-old Medal-of-Honor winner died accidentally or killed himself.

But, Rosenberg said, Edson "definitely died of carbon monoxide poisoning." This is gas given off by an automobile's exhaust.
